The Secretary: I noticed that President Kaunda has reacted in a way totally unpredicted by AF. [redacted]

[redacted] I think this will be the reaction of the other Africans too. You guys have the Africans pegged all wrong. They act in foreign policy as they act in domestic policy.

Now on Zaire, how can we communicate with Mobutu in a reliable way?

Vance: Well, as you know, I took the Charge [redacted] in on the meetings. So they know. 25X1

The Secretary: We must get an Ambassador out there fast.

Vance: I agree. These goodies will help rub off on him too. Meanwhile we can communicate through these two guys, and he's expecting us to.

The Secretary: What decisions do we need to make now?

now anyway?

What are you working on

Vance: Narcotics.

The Secretary: Well, they've taken care of the Turks now.

Eagleburger: Hays says the people are changing their minds. Two of them told him they would switch their votes next week if it came up. We really should have done better on the Republicans. He thinks he can get movement next week.

The Secretary: How?

Eagleburger: He didn't give any specifics.

The Secretary: Do we have anything else? Please be sure to keep me informed.

Ingersoll: I have to testify next week on Zaire.

Vance: He was delighted on the financial offer. And I put it to him with no conditions. So he'll invite in the IMF. I think we should now tell the banks and go to the Hill for the $20 million in aid.

The Secretary: (reading cable handed to him by Sisco) Shall we send this to Hussein?

Sisco: Yes, we sent it two hours ago.

The Secretary: Are you sure they're likely to vote for it in September?

Sisco: No, I'm not sure. You can get six in September if we have an interim agreement and a Middle East package up there it will go forward I think.

Eagleburger: Is the Charge out there any good?

Vance: Yes, it's changing Sunday.

Eagleburger: Who is it?

Vance: Walker. After the two visits I think he's OK.

Eagleburger: I thought we weren't going to do that. It worries me on the basis of what I knew four years ago about Walker.

Cutler: The trouble comes if it is time to go see Mobutu. He really doesn't have the seniority.

The Secretary: We can't get an Ambassador out there before September now.

Vance: You may have to go back out again.

Eagleburger: I knew Walker four years ago. He was very bright but he could go off like a rocker in other directions.

The Secretary: Why did we do it?

Vance: The number two guy is worn out.

The Secretary: I've been here for three years, who's replacing me?

Cutler: Cutler is at least an activist.

The Secretary: All right. I need a recommendation for the President.

Vance: We should not lose sight of the need to get enough FMS. We'll get to work with PM on it.

The Secretary: (to Eagleburger) Will you handle this with some precision?
